PROLOGUE

Roak is an underdeveloped planet filled with abundant nature and diverse forms of life. On the southernmost tip of the continent of Muah, stands the tiny, remote border town of Kratus.

And in that town, a girl named Millie runs down the country lane. Her destination: the town's defense force headquarters where she will find her friends Roddick and Dorne.

Despite being in a so-called "defense force," Roddick and Dorne are simply killing time, bored in a town where there are never any accidents, incidents, or tasks in general. Millie, hardly in a position to pass them over, takes them along to patrol around the town.

And then, the story begins...

CHARACTERS

Roddick Farrence

(Voiced by Yuri Lowenthal)

A young Fellpool (a race of people with tails) living on Planet Roak, he is part of his hometown's defense force, and his day job is patrolling the town. He's the passionate type, but sometimes looks kind of mournful and lost in thought.

Millie Chliette

(Voiced by Katie Leigh)

She's a cheerful and dynamic girl who backs up Roddick and Dorne in battle using the healing symbology she learned from her father.

Ronyx J. Kenny

(Voiced by Sam Gold)

The captain in charge of a Terran Alliance reconnaissance mission to Planet Roak, he's logical and cool-headed, but also has a kind-hearted and daring side to him. He enjoys the full trust of his subordinates.

Dorne Murtough

(Voiced by Dick Smallberries, Jr.)

A close friend of Roddick and Millie since childhood, he also belongs to the defense force. He's a big-hearted guy with a core of steel and brings the group together.

Ilia Silvestri

(Voiced by Julie Maddalena)

Ronyx's second-in-command, she's a brilliant woman with a Ph.D. She is also a master of unarmed combat and remarkably cheerful for a soldier. She loves her alcohol.

GETTING STARTED

Once the opening movie has finished, you will be taken to the title screen and can begin the game.

Title Screen

To play the game from the beginning, select New Game. To continue a saved game, select Continue.

If you have no saved data, then Continue will not be selectable.

New Game

If you highlight New Game and press the START button or X, you will be taken to the character naming screen. Once you have named the character, the game will begin.

Naming Your Character

Here, you can change the main character's name. "RODDICK" is the default name, and you can leave his name as is by choosing OK without making any changes. If you would like a different name, use C to delete the letters, select new ones from the lower panel, and press X to input them. Choosing Return takes you back to the title screen.

You can change character names after starting the game, too, via the status screen (see P. 28).

Changing a Character's Name

X : Input letter

C : Delete letter

START button: OK

SELECT button: Switch name back to default

Continue

With Continue, you can resume play from your saved data. Select the save you wish to load and press X.

Movie Gallery

Here, you can re-watch the movies that play during the course of the game. Select the movie you would like to see and press X to view. Pressing C during playback will stop the movie and return you to the gallery.

Saving

If you open up the Camp Menu on the world map (P. 22), you will be able to save. Generally, you cannot save in towns or dungeons, unless you manage to find a save point. You can load saved data from the Camp Menu at any point. Also, as saving requires 384KB of free memory space, a Memory Stick Duo™ or Memory Stick Pro Duo™ will be necessary. Please have one inserted into the Memory Stick Duo™ slot before saving.

Save Points

You will find these around towns and in dungeons. Touching a save point will allow you to save the game.

The adventure mainly takes place on the world map and the field screens for towns and dungeons.

The Field

As the player, you traverse the world map, making your way to towns and dungeons. The L button and R button pan the camera around on the world map so you can see around you.

■ World Map

This is the stage upon which your epic adventure is set. Explore the various towns and dungeons dotted about the map to progress through the story. As you journey on, battles will occur along the way.

■ Mini Map

Using the START button, you can turn on or off a reduced-scale map and change its display style.

- ▲ Your party's current location and direction
- Towns, villages, etc.

■ Towns and Villages

You will come across various populated towns and villages (see P. 12). Talk to the townspeople to learn new information, and visit shops to stock up on supplies for your adventure.

■ Dungeons

You will discover dungeons inside locations such as caves and shrines. Inside, you will encounter enemies and battle will break out. Also, there may be treasure chests containing items.

Basic Movement in the Field

Visit various locations, talk to townspeople, and find items in treasure chests.

■ Talking

Approach a person and press X to talk to them. Also, use X to open treasure chests and investigate places that have caught your eye.

Private Actions

Sometimes, a Private Action icon will appear when you approach a town on the world map. Private Actions are mini episodes starring different characters. During these episodes, townspeople will divulge different information from before, and special, unique events will occur.

Press Y when the Private Action icon appears to enter the town in Private Action mode.

The actual Private Action will differ depending on which party members you have, which town you are in, and simply timing.

Depending on the outcome of these Private Actions, the plot of future Private Actions and relationships between characters may change, for better or worse. Characters with good relationships will give each other more support in battle.

Places to Visit in Towns

In towns, you can spend the night at inns and buy provisions from item shops and weapon shops. There are also private homes and bars to explore.

Inns: Restore health

When you stay at an inn, your whole party's HP, MP, and any status ailments are healed. The cost depends on how many characters are in the party.

Weapon shops: Purchase equipment

These stores deal in weapons, armor, and accessories. The available stock depends on the shop. You can check which characters are able to use each item by looking at the top left of the screen. Purchase equipment at these stores to prepare your party for the battles to come (see P. 26).

Item shops: Purchase items

These shops specialize in healing items, such as Blueberries, and other useful tools. The available stock depends on the shop.

Skill Guilds: Purchase skill sets

Here you can buy information on skill sets and get advice about said skills. The skill sets offered differ depending on the guild (see P. 34).

Food shop: Purchase ingredients

These shops deal in fruits, vegetables, grains, etc. These ingredients are essential for creating food items with Item Creation via Cooking (see P. 37).

Arena: Hone your skills in one-on-one combat!

In the town of Tatroi, you can compete in the Arena. Choose a character, and receive a prize after winning five one-on-one battles in a row. Characters start off at Rank H but can fight in higher-ranked matches as they clear each rank. The opponents are generally enemies you can encounter in other places.

Buying and Selling Items

Simply select the item(s) and quantity you wish to buy or sell, select Checkout, and press X to complete the transaction.

Choose the item(s) you wish to buy or sell, and on the right you will see your current funds, the transaction amount, and how much money you will have left afterwards.

Use Checkout to finish the transaction. Buying and selling can be conducted at the same time.

In battle, you take control of a single character's actions and perform attacks. The rest of your party follow the battle strategies you have assigned and act automatically.

Commencing and Fighting a Battle

If you encounter enemies as you traverse the field, the screen switches to the Battle Field.

■ Battle Start

At the beginning of the fight, your party and the enemy appear on the field. Your party starts in the battle formation you have set.

■ Movement & Attack

You control one character, carrying out movements and attacks. The other characters follow their pre-arranged strategies (see P.30) and act automatically.

■ Victory

Defeat all enemies to win the battle. Defeated foes will give you experience points, money, and items. After battle has ended, you will return to the main field screen.

■ Defeat

If all of your members are incapacitated, you lose. The game is over, and you will be taken to the Load screen.

Using Symbology (Spells)

Cast spells with the L button or R button, just as with special arts, or by selecting "SYMBOLGY" from the Command Circle (P. 17). With symbology, however, it takes time to cast spells. Moreover, the spell will be cancelled should the character take damage while casting.

Waiting time between spells

After using a spell, the casting time gauge begins to fill up again. The character cannot use any spells until it is full again.

Change Target (Semi-Auto Select)

Fleeing a battle

Choose to escape, and all party members start to run. If you successfully escape, the battle ends.

Using Skills

Characters who have learned combat skills are able to unleash them in a fight. The right side of the screen will show the name of the skill used.

Status Ailments

Your characters can sometimes develop status-affecting ailments due to enemy attacks. You can cure these by using items or spells.

Types of Status Ailments

Poison

(Healing item: Aquaberries, Antidote, etc.)

HP diminishes over time. This ailment continues after the battle. Out in the field, HP is lost as you walk and the screen flashes green.

Paralysis

(Healing item: Paralysis Cure, etc.)

The character becomes unable to move. This ailment continues after the battle.

Petrification

(Healing item: Stone Cure, etc.)

The character becomes unable to move. This ailment continues after the battle.

Silence

(Healing item: Medicine Bottle)

The character is unable to cast spells. This wears off after the battle.

Daze

(Healing item: None)

The character is unable to move for a short while.

Incapacitated

(Healing item: Resurrection Elixir, etc.)

This occurs when a character's HP reaches zero. The character is unable to perform any actions in this state. This ailment continues after the battle.

Elements

Weapons, armor, special arts, spells, and enemy attacks sometimes have elemental attributes. The amount of damage dealt or received can change depending on these elements.

Types of elements

There are six elements: fire, water, wind, earth, light, and dark. The element indicator, which you can find on the status and other screens, shows which elemental associations an item has. Illuminated element icons indicate elemental resistance or weakness.

Elemental effects

For weapons, an illuminated element icon means that the weapon deals double damage with that element. For other equipment, if there is a "+" sign next to an element icon, it means any damage received from a weapon, spell, etc. of that elemental type will either be halved, nullified, or absorbed. A "-" sign means that the damage received will double.

Ending a Battle

Defeat all enemies to win the battle. Any party member still conscious and able to move will receive experience points, and their HP and MP may recover a little. Also, when characters accumulate a certain amount of experience points, they will level up. Their stats will increase, and they sometimes learn new special arts or spells.

The amount of HP and MP recovered depends on how high the character's STM is.

Defeat (Game Over)

If all party members are incapacitated, paralyzed, or petrified and become unable to fight, then you will lose the battle. It will be game over, and you will be returned to the Load screen.

Battle Tips

■ Get behind the enemy

Because attacks from behind cannot be blocked, it is in your interest to maneuver behind the enemy. Also, because weapon attacks can only be done horizontally, moving up and down makes you a harder target to hit.

■ Protect symbologist (spell-casting) allies

If a spell-casting character is attacked during the casting process, the whole spell is cancelled. When you have symbologists in your party, do not let the enemy get near them. When spell-casting enemies are on the battlefield, focus your attacks on them to cancel their spells before they can finish casting.

Here you can swap equipment, use items, and perform Item Creation.

Super Specialties

A super specialty is an extremely powerful specialty, performed by combining several characters' specialties. A super specialty becomes available when at least two characters have learned the prerequisite specialties.

Select the skill to be learned and press X. The cost in SP will be deducted, and the skill will be learned. This will not work if the character does not have sufficient SP, however.

Leveling Up Skills

You can level up skills already learned by spending more SP on them. As their level rises, so does their power.

SP Required for Leveling Up Skills

Each time you level up a skill, it costs more SP to level it up the next time, so think carefully about how you want to spend your hard-earned SP. The maximum skill level is 10. You cannot accumulate more than 999 SP, so keep an eye on those numbers!

Types of Skills

Skills consist of status skills and battle skills. Status skills affect the character's ability to learn specialties, and battle skills affect the character's actions in battle.

Here are the level one skill sets. LV refers to skill level.

Appraising Unknown Items

You will sometimes pick up unknown items, and their name will be displayed as "?ITEM," "?WEAPON," etc. These items can be identified using Appraising in Item Creation (see P. 36), but it costs a pair of Spectacles each time you try to identify an unknown item.

Item Creation

You can make new items with your various specialties via Item Creation. However, specific items and materials are necessary.

Item Creation Screen

Materials

These are the food ingredients, gems, crystals, etc., that are needed for Item Creation. The necessary materials differ depending on which Item Creation specialty you want to perform.

Required Item

These are items needed to perform an Item Creation specialty. Even if you have all the materials necessary, you cannot perform Item Creation if you do not have these required items (some Item Creation specialties do not require such an item). The required items you will need differ depending on which Item Creation specialty you want to perform.

Item Creation example: Cooking

The final dish can turn out a number of ways depending on the ingredient chosen and your current specialty level. A higher specialty level means you are more likely to cook up a mouthwatering masterpiece.

Select Ingredient

For Cooking, select a food ingredient from the available list. Let us use Vegetables as an example.

Success!

Cabbage Roll

A tasty-looking dish that will recover some HP when eaten!

Failure...

Wilted Salad

Something that is not especially effective when eaten and will not fetch a decent price if sold, either. Also, failure could mean that you end up with no finished product at all.

The Importance of Talents

If a character has a talent relevant to a certain specialty, it makes that specialty easier to succeed in performing. Also, there are some specialties which simply will not work unless the character has the relevant talent.

Developing New Talents

Even characters who don't have a certain talent may spontaneously develop it from using a specialty over and over.
